SENSATIVE INFORMATION

Sensative is a startup with the high ambition to become a world leader in the smart home market. We take this commitment and our future very seriously. Sensative has spent more than 3 years, developing Strips to a product that is guaranteed to change the sensor market and change the way people see, or don't see in this case, how sensors can improve their lives. Strips' high quality and unique hardware and software design make it unlike any other sensor on the market. With a battery life estimated at up to 10 years, Strips will allow customers to increase the number of sensors in their homes without increasing their workload. No changing or charging batteries here. Because of these premium features, Strips will attract customers interested in building or supplementing their smart home system and is able to sell at a premium price meaning there are healthy margins available for everyone in the chain. Our partners are an important part of our success so please do not hesitate to reach out to us with any feedback or questions. We look forward to a profitable working relationship!
